Everybody's Talking

Life by the water: Anyone wanting to live in a unique, water-accessible community might consider Het Brekkense Wiel in the Netherlands. The area's name means "The Broken Wheel" in Dutch. Located between IJsselmeer, which is the largest lake in the country, and the Frisian Lakes, this neighbourhood was built in 1992. Near the water sport destination town of Lemmer, the design of this residential area is similar to its namesake. The 230 homes are arranged in a configuration that looks like a collection of broken wheel halves. The neighbourhood's design means all of the multi-family structures have access to water frontage, as well as roads that provide access by car.

Locked up: A woman in Bangkok, Thailand, is very thankful that she has a caring sister. Not having heard from the woman for three days, the sister called the police to investigate. It turns out that the doorknob on the woman's bathroom was faulty, and she had accidentally locked herself in. She tried banging and yelling to attract attention, to no avail. Although she didn't have food to eat, she was lucky to be able to stay hydrated with tap water. Being a healthy person, it didn't take long for the woman to get her strength back after a short stint in the hospital. The moral of the story? Get those broken doorknobs fixed!

Mechanical dogs: More and more people in China are choosing a robot dog for a pet instead of a real one. The craze is becoming noticeable, as more of these mechanical pets can be seen on the street being walked by their owners. Developed by robotics companies, some models of these "dogs" can carry a small amount of weight and can be programmed to sit, roll over, and shake a paw. While such pets may not be great at cuddling, their owners don't have to feed them, clean up after them, or find a sitter to look after the pretend animals when they go on vacation.

Fake kidnapping: A young woman, her boyfriend, and his family thought it would be a good idea for her to pretend to be kidnapped, and then ask her mother to pay the ransom money. The incident happened on Tenerife, one of the Canary Islands. The con artists filmed a video of the daughter making a tearful plea for her mother to hand over 50,000 Euros to ensure her release. The mom, luckily, called the cops, saying that this had happened before. The police were suspicious, so they started an investigation focused on the daughter and her boyfriend's family, quickly rounding up enough evidence to charge these criminals with fake kidnapping

PISCES
(Feb. 19 - March 19)

Pyramid count: When thinking about pyramids, Egypt naturally comes to mind. That country has about 138 of these ancient structures, but Sudan has even more: between 200 and 250 pyramids.
